

2024 “Concrete Cuvée” Chenin Blanc, Clarksburg

History

We have long been fans of Chenin Blanc from the Loire Valley, and over the years have searched for local Chenin Blanc grapes to make a dry wine from this classic varietal. We discovered an ideal vineyard in Clarksburg California, home to the vast majority of Chenin Blanc grapes grown in California. This vineyard is south-west of Sacramento, in the Sacramento River delta, where breezes from the San Francisco Bay help cool the grapes. We use a 500-gallon egg-shaped concrete vessel to highlight the minerality of the grapes, and the results have exceeded our expectations.

Production

In 2024 the temperatures during ripening were moderate and steady, and the grapes ripened slowly, which helped us keep the sugars (and therefore alcohol) lower than typical. The grapes were flavorful, highlighted with good acidity, lovely aromas, and ripe Chenin Blanc varietal flavors. We picked at night to keep the grapes as cold as possible and pressed the grapes to our egg-shaped concrete fermenter (known as “Black Bart”) immediately. As is our style, we fermented the grapes on the native yeasts found on the grape skins. The fermentation took off slowly and progressed perfectly for almost 25 days. We left the wine on its lees for toasty flavors and rich texture.

We bottle our white wines as soon as possible to keep the freshness and liveliness of the wine intact. We’re excited with the richness, velvety texture, and expressive aromatics of this lovely Chenin Blanc.

Tasting Notes:

Color: Pale gold

Aroma: Beautiful intense aromas of pear and stonefruit (peach and apricot), with hints of honeycomb, minerals, and a sweet spice finish.

Taste: Lush and round on entry, with apricot, pear, and honey flavors predominant. The wine shows a lovely acid balance, with hints of grapefruit and a round, mouth-filling stonefruit finish that persists for minutes.
